ILLITERATI

books & coffee

THERE IS NO GOOD EXPLANATION FOR WHAT IS GOING ON HERE.

ABOUTMENUGALLERYCONTACT

Illiterati Books & Coffee opened on April 1st 2012 in Dharamsala. We love our beautiful view of the Dhauladhar mountains and enjoy sitting beside our wood-fire stove during monsoon rains or wintertime. We used to sell books but we don't anymore. Luckily, our entire collection is available for everyone to browse through and read in the cafe.

Our book selection features works on Shaivism, Hinduism, Shakta, Zen, Tibetan Buddhism, Tantra, as well as Western philosophy, history, economics, development, conflict, natural health, Islam, Christianity, and magic and esotericism. We also have Western and Eastern classics published by Vintage, Oxford, and Penguin Classics. To continue your travels, consult our Lonely Planets, Rough Guides, and other travel guidebooks. We stock many large-format art and photography books, specifically about India. We also have contemporary art and photography books documenting life all over India such as pilgrimage, handicrafts, landscapes, rituals, festivals, animals, cityscapes, etc.

We also have an assortment of musical instruments such as guitar, flute, and keyboard piano, for the musically inclined to use while they are here.

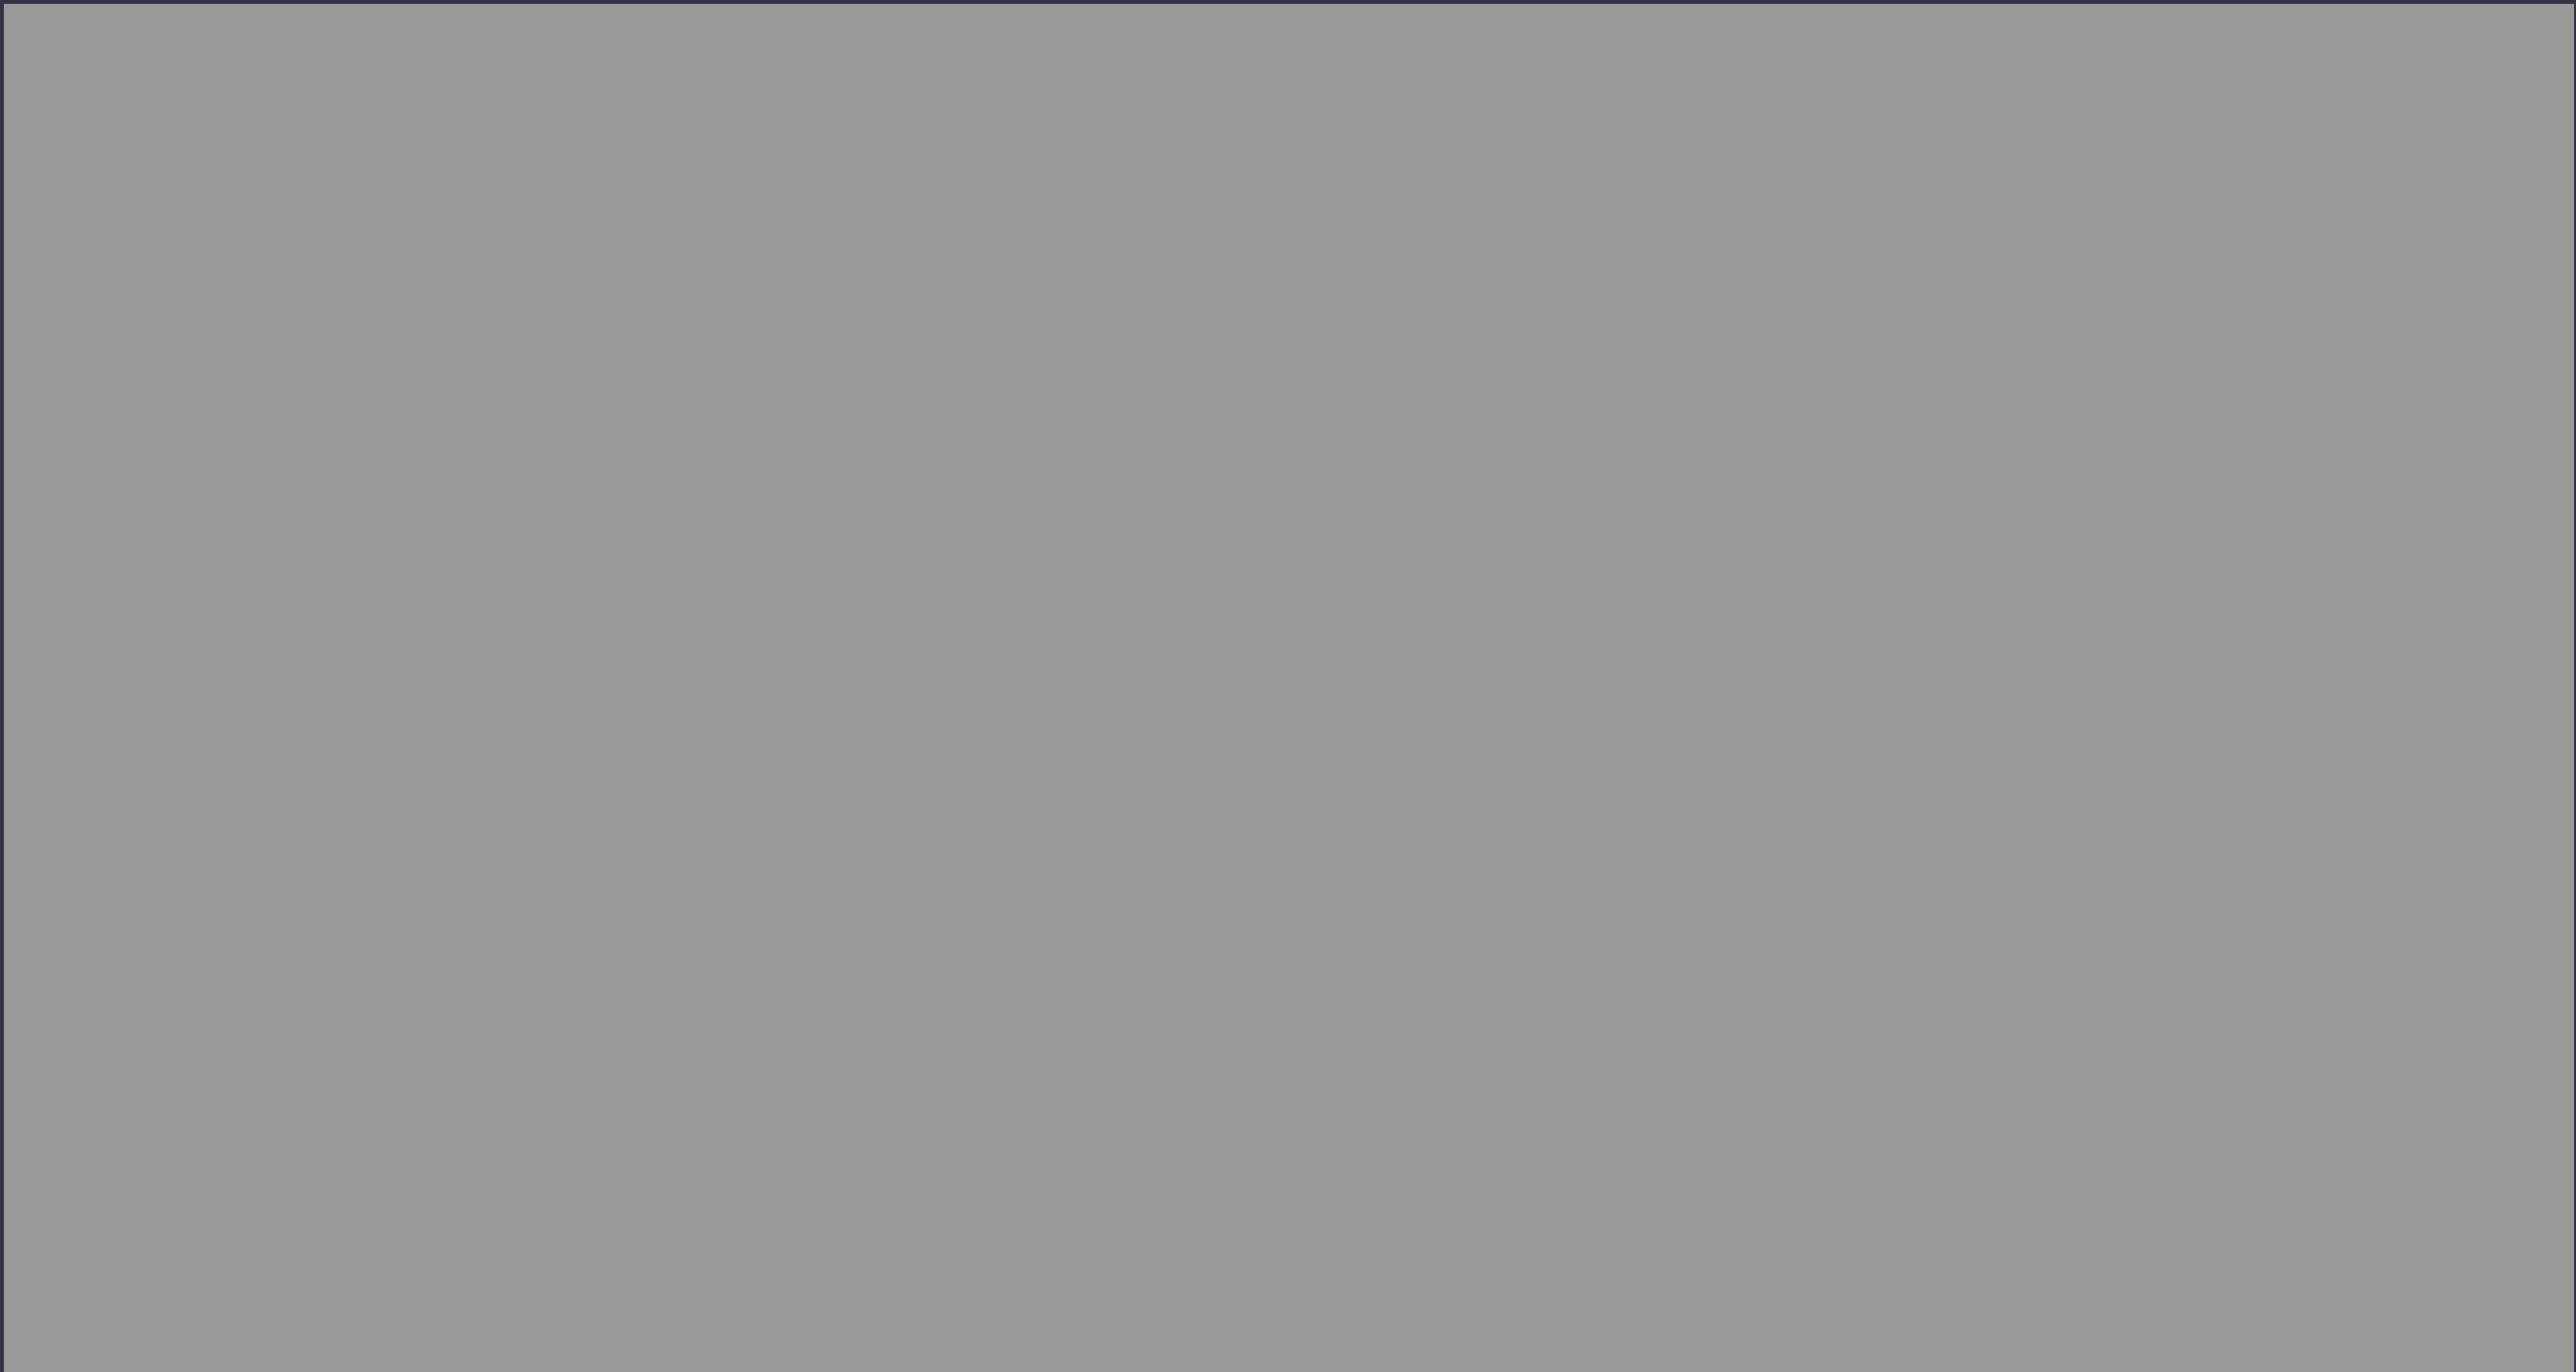

Our dishes are prepared fresh from scratch using seasonal ingredients and may not be available all the time. Our kitchen is also a small unit so it natural that we can't cater to groups bigger than 6 person. Best to call us before you visit us.
